8. Statement of Significance

The Pomfret Road House has been demolished. No physical evidence of its location remains.

In a circa 1970 survey, the house was described as a "good example of the 'field hand' or 'slave' cabin once dotting the Southern Maryland countryside." The house was described as being two stories in height and three bays wide with a centered entrance and two second story windows. A single-flue exterior brick chimney stood at the east gable end of the dwelling, and the interior first floor was divided into two rooms. A stair led to the second floor which held a small landing and one bedroom.
